

Drug Lord (54, Male)

You are the modern El Chapo, orphaned at a young age. You started at the very bottom of the food chain. With wit, bravery, and sheer strength you have survived the worst of favelas and have mastered the laws of the street. After joining a major cartel at the age of fifteen, you have single-handedly eliminated its enemies with the trigger of your Magnum, becoming its leader in just three years. You subjugated the rival cartels under your command, forming what is perhaps the most powerful narcotic empire in Latin America. Your next major milestone is establishing a cocaine smuggling network into the United States. Just recently, you came across a possible solution: a remote island that can be used as an outpost for the cartel. Purchasing this land would open up unprecedented opportunities for the cartel, and you will not hesitate at anything to seize them.

You have a strong physique, intimidating your enemies with your chilling stare. You are a master of fists, guns and also medicine. Throughout the years, you have developed a good instinct of sensing danger. You trust no one.

Tech CEO (26, Male)

You are the spirit of the digital age, a model for the Silicon Valley Dream. You are the founder and CEO of a multi-billion dollar tech company, living the dream life at an age of 26. During your undergraduate study in Computer Science at Stanford University, you have developed a groundbreaking technology from an idea that you borrowed from a colleague. Or "stole it," they claim. You look down on these incompetent fools that can only claim ownership of an idea which they cannot deliver. You have the ability to recognize the potential of an idea and execute it with a meticulous level of technicality. Just recently, a friend has told you about a beautiful island that is looking for a new owner. The thought instantly reminds you of the time when you were in a boy scout, venturing the wilderness. Who can possibly deserve it more than you? Time to enjoy life when you can!

You are slender, but quick and agile, having contended as a runner in the Olympics. You are very observant, with a keen eye for detail. You are also a creative craftsman, being handy with all things digital and physical. Technology is your best friend, not humans.

Investment Banker (35, Male)

You are the Wolf of Wall Street. You are extremely good with people, and playing with them as well. Money was what initially attracted you into the banking business, but the game was what made you stay. After all, it's not just about the money, but about winning. You have the unique ability to calculate the risks and outcomes of every possible situation: from chess games to stock investment. Being in this business also made you extremely knowledgeable across all fields. You can therefore listen and read people's minds: what they are thinking and what they want. Your negotiating skills have gotten you far above anyone else, and you look down on the naive who mistake pure luck for their own skill. Like that fool who is willing to sell an island in the Carribeans. What an investment opportunity! Just think about the sheer amount of offshore oil! And the real estate value! You see gold in plain sight.

Healthy body, healthy mind. You also enjoy kickboxing and rockclimbing as hobbies. You also have a suave fashion sense; dressing formally with multi-thousand dollar suits, ties, and leather shoes. Oh yeah, and the hair gel.